

Marketing - The Retro Revolution

the finest writer in our field today - Journal of Marketing the great heretic - Retrospectives in Marketing the most devastating critic of the academic discipline of marketing ever likely to be encountered - Service Industries Journal a jewel in the crown of the academic marketing establishment - Marketing Intelligence and Planning remarkably entertaining - Public Library Journal dazzling erudition - European Journal of Marketing instant classic - Journal of Marketing Management Has marketing moved from new and improved to as good as always? Is old the new new? Retro-marketing is all around us, whether it be retro-products like the neo-Beetle, retro-scapes, such as Niketown, or retro-advertising campaigns, which make the most of the advertisers glorious heritage. The rise of retro has led many to conclude that it represents the end of marketing, that it is indicative of inertia, ossification and the waning of creativity. Marketing - The Retro Revolution explains why the opposite is the case, demonstrating that retro-orientation is a harbinger of change and a revolution in marketing thinking. In his engaging and lively style, Stephen Brown shows that the implications of today's retro revolution are much more profound than the existing literature suggests. He argues that just as retro-marketing practitioners are looking to the past for inspiration, so students, consultants and academics should seek to do likewise. History reveals that new ideas often come wrapped in old packaging. Marketing - the Retro Revolution unwraps this retro-package and, in doing so, offers radically new ideas for the future of the field.
